

MS Winter Retreat Parents & Students,

We have some extremely unfortunate and sad news. Crooked Creek, the camp where Snowbound and High Altitude are hosted, had a major water line burst in their dining hall/kitchen, and it has destroyed their facility. They researched repairing everything before camp, but unfortunately, the damage was so severe that the camp will not be operational before March. So, they are forced to close down the whole campus and cancel our winter retreats.

Snowbound and High Altitude retreats are six weekends of camp for over 500+ students. This is a huge disappointment for many, including our City students and staff at Southeast. Our student pastors are working hard collaborating with other churches to find alternative options for camp, and they will have a committee meeting this Thursday. We promise to keep you up-to-date.

Please reach out with any questions that you have. If no other camp is available for this spring, please know that we will be providing every student who has registered a full refund.

Again, we apologize for this news. I know I have three teens in my home who share in the disappointment of this cancellation.

Best,

Christina Nagel
